ESCAPE

TRAVEL / RESTAURANTS / CULTURE Edited by KATE WORTHINGTON

Yorkshire has close ties with sculpture, being the birthplace of artists Barbara Hepworth and Henry Moore, as well as home to Damien Hirst. Now those ties are getting even closer, with the region hosting Yorkshire Sculpture International (YSI), a new 100-day festival. Henry Moore Institute, Leeds Art Gallery, The Hepworth Wakefield and the Yorkshire Sculpture Park will hold exhibitions, while public commissions will be unveiled in Leeds and Wakefield city centres. Be sure to visit Yorkshire Sculpture Park's recently completed visitor centre The Weston (pictured), designed by architects Feilden Fowles. Housing a new restaurant, gallery and shop, and constructed from layered pigmented concrete and wood, it's an architectural artwork in its own right. 22 June–29 September (yorkshire-sculpture.org).
